

Paige Elliott Serves as Congressional Intern in Moran's D.C. Office

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Congressman Jerry Moran announced that Paige Elliott is serving as a congressional intern in his Washington D.C., office. Elliott is a 2006 graduate of Hutchinson High School in Hutchinson, Kansas.

“Internships provide Kansas students the opportunity to learn about Congress and put in practice the skills and knowledge they have acquired in college,” Moran said. “Paige is doing good work for Kansans and gaining experience that will help her serve others throughout her life.”

In the fall, Elliott will be a senior at the University of Kansas and is majoring in art history with a minor in business. Upon graduation, Elliott may attend law school.

“It has been a privilege to work for Congressman Moran in his Washington, D.C., office,” said Elliott. “First hand exposure to our federal government is teaching me many valuable lessons that I will take with me into the future. As a native Kansan, I am happy to be able to help serve the ‘Big First’ District during this fascinating time in our country’s history.”

In the office, Elliott assists Moran with legislative and administrative duties on behalf of the people of Kansas.

Elliott is the daughter of Tom and Carolyn Elliott of Hutchinson.
